MASTER IN NON-FORMAL EDUCATION

BSU CARES

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

Nonformal Education known as the Adult and Community Education (ACE) is an instrument of eradicating illiteracy. It becomes an agent of people's empowerment and transformation process geared towards poverty alleviation as well as improvement of the quality of life.

The program intends to equip adult educators and related practitioners with necessary skills in the management and delivery of equal access to the basic educational services to the masses. Nonformal or Alternative Learning System (ALS) educators will be oriented with the alternative modes and andragogical strategies essential for adult and community education. Formal school teachers are likewise encouraged to commit themselves not only in the school but also in community extension services.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES:

The MNFE aims to:

1. Design, implement, manage and evaluate pro-active ALS programs for individuals or group.
2. Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the fundamental principles and methods of teaching and learning for ALS. Develop knowledge, skills and positive attitude for efficient and effective teaching, research and extension
3. Design and evaluate courseware, training and technology transfer programs and processes

MODE OF INSTRUCTION:

A combination of self-study modules and tutorial session at designated learning centers will be provided to participants every once a month in a semester. Study module workbooks will be provided. Field activities, assignments, and examinations will supplement this.
